DETAILED ACTION

1. This is the first action on the merits, with claims 1-13 pending and under consideration.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 1 is objected to for the following informality: claim 1 contains the acronym "V-1", and an acronym in the first instance of claims should be expanded upon/spelled out with the acronym indicated in parentheses, i.e., vasopressin-1 receptor agonist (V-1 receptor agonist). The abbreviations can be used thereafter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-4, 6 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lindberg et al. (Lysine Vasopressin (LV) In The Treatment Of Refractory Hemodialysis Induced Hypotension (HIH), Kidney International, 1988, Vol. 33, No. 1, page 229). Lindberg et al. teach administering lysine vasopressin to human patients undergoing hemodialysis. Administration reduced the number of hypotensive episodes. Because the same active agent is being administered to the same patients according to the same methods steps in Lindberg et al. as is claimed by Applicant, inherently excess extracellular fluid will be reduced, high blood pressure will be stabilized, interdialytic hypertension will be inhibited, and intradialytic hypotension will be inhibited in Lindberg et al. to the same extent claimed by Applicant.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 5 and 7-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lindberg et al. (cited above). Application of Lindberg et al. is the same as in the above paragraph. Lindberg et al. do not teach the use of the vasopressin agonists recited in instant claims 5 and 7-10, and does not teach the dosages recited in the instant claims 11 and 12. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time Applicant's invention was made to use the vasopressin agonists of instant claims 5 and 7-10 in place of lysine vasopressin in the method of Lindberg et al. because the vasopressin agonists of instant claims 5 and 7-10 are known vasopressin agonists and it is routine to substitute one vasopressin agonist for another while achieving only the expected vasopressin agonist effect. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time Applicant's invention was made to determine all operable and optimal dosages for the method of Lindberg et al. because dosage is an art-recognized result-effective variable which is routinely determined and optimized in the pharmaceutical arts.
